

Welcome to The Vilij

You were never meant to do this alone.

Raising a child with additional needs can be overwhelming - even when you're coping.

The Vilij is a calm, kind place for SEND families - where you're understood without needing to explain, guided without judgement, and supported by people who actually get it.

Think of us as your online village community.

How We Can Support You

Built by families who live this life.

We know the fierce love we feel for our children and the exhaustion that comes from battling systems just to secure the life they deserve.

We know the late-night Googling, the meetings, the advocacy, and the moments that feel overwhelming, lonely, and frightened. Many of us have sat in hospital corridors, school meetings, and waiting rooms wondering if anyone else understands this life.

We've been there. We've felt it all. And we believe no family should have to navigate it alone.

The Vilij is where you find your people.
